

On site studies in Israel and other selected Middle Eastern countries are conducted by the Department of Philosophy and Religion that incorporate course work and field trips to make the study meaningful in areas of Biblical studies, archaeology, and historical geography.

Credit earned in this program is granted by King for work applicable to the King program. Additional opportunities also exist for study at the Jerusalem University College and the Middle East Studies Program through the Council of Christian Colleges and Universities.